Mons. LOUDET,

Begs to inform the Public of Buenos Ayres and the Argentine Republic, that he continues to take Photographs for the Carte de Visite, full length, and in every other style.

Mons. Loudet visited the Great Exhibition of Paris in 1867, in order to make himself, thoroughly and practically acquainted with every improvement in the above important art; and, since his return from Europe, he has placed his Establishment on precisely the same footing as those of the first Photographers in Paris, London, and the principal cities of Europe. The Apparatus, has been selected from the most approved of those in the Paris Exhibition, several of the inventions having received Prize Medals, among which may be mentioned those of Dallmeyer, of Loudon, &c.

Voigtlander e Sohn. The saloons [in which may be included the Atelier] are handsomely furnished and commodious.

Mons. LOUDET feels the most perfect confidence in saying he can produce likenesses in every aspect, infinitely superior to those which have already met with such unbounded approbation from the distinguished Public of Buenos Ayres.

The Public are respectfully invited to inspect the Gallery. 98,116

CONSTANTINE'S
PERSIAN HEALING OR PINE TAR SOAP.

For the Toilet this Soap has no equal. It preserves the complexion fair, the skin soft, flexible, and healthy.

It removes all Dandruff, preserves the hair soft and silky, and prevents it from falling off or prematurely turning grey.

It cures pimples on the face, cracked or chapped hands, salt rheum, frosted feet, burns, fresh cuts or wounds of all kinds, all diseases of the scalp and skin, and is a good Shaving Soap.

WHAT THOSE SAY WHO USE IT.

It has cured pimples on the face and neck, itch, salt rheum, sunburn, chapped hands and indolent ulcers; and those knowing the medical ingredients, will say it is the best medicated soap in the market.

William Wynn.
Chemist and Druggist, 150 Fulton Avenue, Brooklyn Avenue, New York.

Baldness Cured—I can recommend your Persian Healing Soap for Baldness: it is bringing my hair on beautifully. I consider it the best hair renovator in use.

M. H Combs,
218 Atlantic-street, Brooklyn, New York.

I recommended it to a friend who had a very annoying annual eruption on the skin; he used it a short time and was cured. I have recommended it to others who have used it, and always with success. From actual knowledge, I consider it a great curative in cutaneous affections. I don't know what its ingredients are, but I know it cures any skin affections. I have used it for catarrh in the head, making a suds and snuffing it through the nose, and it has cured me. I use it constantly for the toilet, and consider it the best soap for that purpose I always recommend it, and am happy to do anything to bring it into notice.

R. G. Benson,
Office of the United States Life Ins. Co.,
40 Wall-street, New York.

I have used your Persian Healing Soap in my practice extensively, and it has proved the best healing soap I ever used. It has no equal as a soap for washing the heads and skin of children.

L. P. Aldrich, M.D., 19 Harrison-street, New York.

The Rev. J. M. Adams, Pastor of the M.E Church, Bloomfield, N.J., writes:—Of the Persian Healing Soap I can speak with confidence and in high eulogy. It has a charm. It heals with unusual rapidity. I don't want to be without it, &c.

It being an admitted fact, that "Money makes money," the object of LA BIENHECHORA could not be better, since it opens a vast Savings Bank for the surplus or savings of the Public, so that, by the proper employment of these small gains, a moderate capital, or even annuity, may be secured in a short time. By this means a provident, though helpless, family can husband their small means, and, in the end, attain a competency.

It being proved that the accumulation of interest is the most powerful means of augmenting the capital, THE BIENHECHORA DEL PLATA—an Argentine Company, whose only investments are in the country—holds out to Subscribers greater advantages than any other Institution, by reason of all its dealings being in the River Plate, where are current as large interests as in any part of the world.

THE BIENHECHORA DEL PLATA receives Deposits of from Five Patacones per Annum up to any amount in Weekly, Monthly, or Yearly Instalments.

THE TELEGRAPH INAUGURATION.

Yesterday the President's saloons at the Government House were turned into a telegraph office for the purpose of inaugurating the Buenos Ayres and Rosario line of Telegraph, now finished and in good working order. The invitations sent round were in the names of Domingo F. Sarmiento and Emilio Castro. All the Congresales and most of the dignitaries of the country were in attendance. Mr. Burton, the manager of the line, had provided everything for the occasion. The wires connecting the head office in Calle Cangallo, alongside the Mauá Bank, were carried over the housetops, starting from Fusoni's big house and crossing the streets until carried into the Presidential Chamber. There are two wires up, and it is supposed that as the line belongs to the Government, these wires will now be kept permanently up.

The weather was not all that could be desired for the occasion, the atmosphere damp and heavy, and according to advices from the country, in many parts raining hard; but Mr. Burton has alike conquered time, weather, and space, and congratulatory despatches flashed across the wires, although raining heavily in the neighborhood of Pergamino. At 2 o'clock the presidential saloons presented a brilliant 'coup d'œil. President Sarmiento and Governor Castro welcomed their guests and chatted and talked freely with the crowd. We noticed present the following gentlemen:—

Francisco Madero, Colonel Orquero, H. E. Dr. Avellaneda, Minister of Education; H.E. Dr. Varela, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Sr. Granel, H.E. Sr. Gorostiaga, Minister of Finance; H.E. Colonel Gainza, Minister of War; Don Manuel Ocampo, Mr. John Tyler Fox, Mr. Craufurd, Sr. Velez, Dr. Quintana, Sr. Bilbao, and some hundred others whose name we do not recollect. Mr. Burton and Mr. Trant worked the oracle, and H.E. President Sarmiento despatched the first message to Rosario.

The President to the operatives of the line, sends congratulations in his own name, and the Governor, in the name of the people of Buenos Ayres.

To D. Domingo F. Sarmiento, foremost Advocate of Education in the Republic, as the principal base of a free and independent society, be long life, health, and peace, for the progress of our country, and that of the telegraph which we to-day inaugurate.

EVARISTO VILLARINO,
Station Master, Mercedes.

To the President and Governor.

In the name of the Rosario office, I salute the President and Governor, and congratulate them on this glorious inauguration. That the country we serve may continue always in the path of progress, and may the grand undertaking about to place the riverine Provinces of this great Republic within speaking distance, be successful.

FRANK,
Station Master, Rosario.

To citizen Emilio Castro, Governor of the Province of Buenos Ayres.

I congratulate you on the election which the delegates of the Province have made in your person, with liberty and independence. I also congratulate you on the part you have taken in founding the Buenos Ayres and Rosario telegraph.

E. VILLARINO,
Station Master,
Rosario.

I salute the President of the Republic and his Minister Dr. Avellaneda on this day, so important for the progress of this country.

J. A. PICOT,
Mercedes.

D. P. Saubidat, Juez de Paz of Mercedes, together with the Municipality, salute and congratulate Don Emilio Castro.

Rosario to the President.

The English Consul, as senior of the Consular Corps, sends on the part of his colleagues, and the strangers in Rosario congratulations on the inauguration.

Next came messages from the stations along the line to the President and Governor Castro, congratulating them on the event of the day. Some amusement was caused by the reply of the Gefe Politico of Rosario, who asked the President, the Governor, and his friends present to join in a bumper on so festive an occasion and drink to the prosperity of the Argentine Republic. As there was nothing in the shape of drinkables at the Government House, it was impossible to comply, whereupon an appropriate reply was at once transmitted:—

Consul Hutchinson sent a despatch to the British Legation, and somebody else sent a message to Don Manuel Ocampo, but as these were not for the occasion, Mr Luis Varela, the secretary, did not read them. Subsequently the British Consul sent a message to the Argentine Government felicitating it on the happy occasion; then Mr Hutchinson's despatch to the British Legation was read, congratulating the Minister on the increased facilities for communication. From Rojas, Pergamino, San Nicolas, Mercedes, and in fact all the stations, messages from the Justices of the Peace were received, and about half past three o'clock the assembled multitude declared "Hold, enough"; the band struck up some stirring airs in the patio beneath, and the meeting broke up.

It is indeed a happy sign for this country to find her rulers and leading men celebrating so useful an enterprise as the Telegraph amongst us; even the President and Governor betrayed by their countenances the inward satisfaction they felt as they spoke with Rosario, almost instantaneously receiving replies. Science had come to the aid of the National Constitution, and mocking the old frontier limits of the Arroyo Medio, &c., had bound still closer the two provinces, Santa Fé and Buenos Ayres. There was no longer any necessity for removing the capital to Rosario, since now Rosario had been brought to the capital; the dull posts and wires which spanned the distance between Mercedes and Rosario are the heralds of a progress more staple and more lasting than hitherto known in this country; industry on a solid basis will follow in the wake of science, and around each telegraph post will spring up smiling farms and happy homesteads to supersede the lonely estancia and monotonous and unproductive sheep corral.

Of all the victories commemorated on the Government House, the triumph of to-day takes precedence. It secures to us greater advantages than all the battle-field fights since the Argentine Republic started into existence, and sheds more true glory on the blood-spangled banner of the nation than Ituzanigo, Chacabuco, or Asuncion.

In the motley throng which crowded the Government House, there were present a few who recognised in the interesting celebration, the best and surest promise for our future. A few years' peace, and doubtless we shall speak with Valparaiso and Callao as we now do with Rosario.

We as impartial observers believe that to carve out such a future, we have the right men at the head of affairs, but they must be supported by the country, and not harrassed by a senseless opposition. Industry of every kind, and particularly agricultural, must be fostered and protected, not oppressed and annihilated by a merciless system of taxation. Political economy should be studied by our public men, and an improved morality infused into the administration of public affairs. Can we carry out this program, then we hail the telegraph post as a new landmark in Argentine history, the emblem of sound progress, the fit monument which stands over the grave of civil war.

INDUSTRIAL PROSPECTS.

The position of affairs in the River Plate is at the moment so critical that our few remarks on industrial prospects last week found echo in every quarter. People admit now without a single dissentient voice that if things go on as they are going, headlong ruin must be the wind up; the only question is, what is to be done to avert the widespread misery which is impending? We pointed to agriculture as the only possible salvation for the country, but we are met by a band of ruined estancieros and sheepfarmers who this year put their little all into wheat, and lost everything. They thought they say like ourselves that pastoral industry could only be remunerative when aided by agriculture; they ploughed up their lands and fenced their fields at a no inconsiderable expense; they sowed wheat and maize on a larger scale than was ever known before in the country districts, and yet now they are poorer and worse off to-day than ever; they insist therefore that agriculture on the estancias is but a dream—the bichomoro, the locust, the droughts, or excessive rains are enemies too powerful for the poor estanciero or sheepfarmer—the camp, they insist, never can and never will be other than it is. If such be the case, then the first thing for President Sarmiento and Governor Castro to turn their heads to is the erection of a grand

National Poor-House,

But though the industrial interests of the country are so terribly prostrated, and beggary and mendicity stalk throughout the land, we are unprepared to admit that things have arrived at such a fatal crisis as the bewildered estanciero paints; on the contrary, we believe the lesson we are receiving at present will prove a salutary one, and teach us all the folly of depending upon one single staple for a national existence.

Camp people are now convinced of the fact that they must produce something else besides wool, if they want to live comfortably and independent; supposing that they cannot grow wheat, or maize, or alfalfa, let them grow something. Here we have this very day an instance of the ruinous state of things in this country, wool [illegible] into the South market from the far South selling at $18 per arroba, while eggs from the Lomas de Zamora, only a stretch from the town, fetch $20 per dozen. We do not now wish to contrast the price of our wool with any of the luxuries of life, or show that a good Havannah cigar at the La Paix is worth more than a mestiza sheep. Such anomalies will exist, we suppose, in spite of every effort, but we point to the very staples of human existence. We have the country teeming with horned cattle, and yet four pounds of good fresh butter are worth a three years old cow, and 'quien sabe' how many sheep. Only the other day in the Plaza Once de Setiembre some sheepfarmers were astounded at a barter which they themselves witnessed in the open market, 25lbs. of fine mestiza wool for two hens. These facts, small and insignificant as they are, prove the truth of our assertion, that the camp people are themselves much to blame for the present widespread ruin which exists. There is not a puesto in the country, not a rancho in the camp, where poultry are not reared, and yet such is the deplorable state of things outside that the whole supplies for the city in these articles must depend almost solely on the industry of the suburbs.

Let any impartial stranger take a run out to the estancias and visit the cattle farms where thousands of head of cattle roam at large; let him have an insight into the management of the place, see the owner running backwards and forwards into the country towns or the city, whenever after the sale of a few novillos he has a little money to spend; let him visit the estancia kitchen, mingle with the peons, hear their conversation, and watch their mode of life, or let him go to the sheep puesto, watch the puestero in his lonely, monotonous life, he will soon learn one of the causes that has produced the rural misery which we now deplore. There is no real bona fide industry in the camp, taming horses, watching cattle, or rearing sheep, is a lazy, indolent life, which has proved the bane of this country. Prices for wool and hides, and jerked beef and tallow have for so many years kept up, that the camp people made fortunes sitting round the 'asador' or maté kettle, morning, noon, and night; they had but to care their stock, round their sheep and cattle in bad weather, shear their sheep and mark their calves, and their share as producers was done; but times have changed, the production of wool is excessive, prices in this market have in the present season tumbled from $65 m/c per arroba to $45, and even at this rate no buyers. Cow hides keep up, and probably will do so until our 5 or 6 millions of horned cattle dwindle down to a million. Jerked beef is going out of fashion, and the niggers of Cuba have got their liberty, and want no more of it, whilst tallow, the slender reed upon which the whole country at present depends, is slipping down to prices following in the wake of wool.

The camp must awake, arise, or be for ever fallen. No man in Buenos Ayres can say what will be the price of wool next season. From the tenor of advices received from abroad the prospects are so gloomy that the probabilities are, if the export tax is maintained and the charge for light erage the same as the present, the article will cease to be an export in toto. And let our readers not deceive themselves; we are not so very far off from this as many imagine. There is a stock to-day of over one million of arrobes in this market, and even at the present unparalleled low prices it is next to impossible to find buyers. Is President Sarmiento aware of the fact, that if the news arrived to-morrow that Lopez had surrendered and the war over, half the barracas in this city might close their doors, as the chief business going on for the last twelve months in those establishments is baling hay for the army. Yes, readers, the truth be told, the grandest and best staple of Buenos Ayres to-day is a 'Will-o'-the wisp' export trade in hay for the allied horses. This, as regards our exports, whilst as regards our imports the finest and best business now going on is with the auctioneers. We have now no room to advert to other branches of trade carried on, on equally ruinous terms; nor have we any inclination, lest we be regarded as pessimists: but the times are critical in the extreme, and we may effect some good by showing that a country that produces so little and consumes so much, burns the candle at both ends, and is on the high road to perdition.

IMPORTANT FROM THE INTERIOR.

THE MINES OF LA FONE AND CARRANZA.

Few who have not visited Catamarca can form any idea of the importance of the great mining operations carried on there by Mr. Lafone and Messrs. Carranza y Molina. The mines worked by the former are situate on the western slopes of some spurs of the Nevado de Aconquija, called Las Capillitas, and present a most prosperous and pleasing picture; the principal vein, La Restauradora, belonging to Messrs Lafone, averages three to nine feet in thickness, and shows splendid bunches of ore, extending over seventy yards longitudinally—the distance worked up to the present. The lower levels are all in good ore, but the influx of water obliged them to cease sinking until the lower tunnel, at a depth of 170 fathoms below these workings shall have been communicated, and draws off the water. They have, however, ore on surface sufficient to keep their numerous furnaces (9) in operation for more than a year. The ores hold on an average twenty per cent. copper, with eleven marks of silver, and half of gold to the cajon of sixty-four quintals. This ore is reduced to bar copper, part of which holds nearly all the gold and silver concentrated, and is thus realized in Europe; 1,000 quintals per month are thus produced and exported worth some £5,000. The works are situate about fifteen leagues from the mines (at Pilciao), and are quite a world in themselves, a busy industrious world, where hundreds of men may be seen moving about like ants amidst glowing furnaces and molten liquid masses of fire. Between mines and works some 700 men are daily employed; by this immense 'personel' hundreds of others are occupied in producing wheat and vegetables, and breeding cattle, to feed so many mouths.

The Messrs. Carranza & Molina's mines are on no less a scale of magnitude, but their works are not so large (four furnaces). They, however, produce nearly as much copper as Lafone, owing to the higher percentage of their ores. These are not so abundant for the moment, but some new veins being now developed will doubtless soon make up the deficiency.

In all the mining and smelting operations more than 1,000 workmen are daily employed, giving by their consumption of food and clothes, occupation to another thousand, and an immense sale for articles of commerce, principally soft goods, all brought from Buenos Ayres. Previous to the establishing of mining and smelting in the district, not over $20,000 were invested in merchandize, whereas now the figures exceed $200,000, and may be said to be on the increase. In former years the wheat, Indian corn, vegetables, wine, cattle pastures, &c., produced in abundance in the neighborhood were either lost, unconsumed, or sold for a mere trifle, as high freight precluded the possibility of export; at the present day all these articles of necessary consumption command a high premium, and are eagerly sought by the miners and arrieros. This is the grand theory of President Sarmiento, verified and practically proved. The sub-Andine provinces have no other possible means of existence, or rather, soaring out of their prostrate condition, than by creating a home consumption for their agricultural produce. The establishing of extensive mining works in San Juan, Mendoza, and La Rioja, are precisely the measures he seeks to realize and proposes to adopt, and it is the soundest policy that could be adopted, not only in the sense already alluded to, but in a political one, for educate and occupy the masses and they will soon forget politics and strife.

I left the mines of Catamarca almost with regret, for it was most refreshing to witness so much industry and go-aheadism in such an out of the way place.

My journey to this town (Tucuman) was the most pleasing and interesting I have ever made in the country, and, notwithstanding some rather serious drawbacks of abominable roads and dangerous fords over fifteen rivers, I am glad to have visited this "garden of the Republic." It has been justly given this rather flattering name, but I think, had I been present at the christening, I should have also added "Y el pantano de la Republica." From Medinas, some twenty leagues south, to the city, it is one great mass of bogs, and almost unfordable rivers. But the present is a bad season to come here,—it is rain, rain, rain, eternally raining and mud. I must, however, go into particulars in this respect, or I may stick in it, as one of my mules and bed did, not five leagues from the city. But all is made up for by the magnificent scenery, noble forests, and fine stretches of open park land, reminding one of some fine old nemesne in England. This illusion is so strong at times, one is, excepting at every turn, and most tantalisingly cheated at not finding some fine old baronial mansion of the middle ages. Birds of varied and beautiful plumage may be seen in thousands, filling the air with the most indescribable din, and bringing back at once the conviction that you are either in the tropics or close to them. And anon, instead of meeting the mailed and armored knight, with lance in rest, and visior raised, proceeding from the imaginary feudal hall, you are suddenly aroused from a medieval day dream to the unpalatable reality of a mouthful of mud splashed over and into you by a wild ponchoed and chiripad Gaucho, dashing past through mire and bog at railway speed.

All along the line of march the eye is constantly meeting patches of emerald green—fields of sugar cane—whose bright color throws into bold relief the rich dark foliage of the laurel and cedar growing in wild luxuriance about, some of gigantic size and noble form. Then again the rice and tobacco plantations intervene at every turn, to vary the apparently boundless sea of semi-tropical vegetation. It is indeed a rich and important province, and its people seem to be of a different race to their semi-Indian brothers of the south—fair skins, regular features, and lightish hair. These are the descendants of the companions of Pizarro, who founded Tucuman and Santiago, direct from Peru, and mixed but little with the then Indian tribes of this district: hence the old Spanish blood is preserved, to a great extent, pure, and unsullied by intermarriage with the red man. This feature is most remarkable as the traveller crosses the Ancaste range of hills, which divides us from Catamarca on the south; there the masses are almost pure Indians, but on dropping into Tucuman suddenly, and approaching the humblest rancho, you find a marked and striking difference in the type, manners, and customs of its people.

The city itself must be classed next to Cordoba in size and beauty; some very fine houses, lately built, adorn the Plaza and principal streets. Almost every house has its orangery, and on ascending one of the numerous miradores, the view beneath—of groves of orange trees and others—interspersed amongst the houses, merits for Tucuman the title of the 'city of orchards.' The perfume from these pervading the air is most agreeable. The Plaza is planted round with orange trees in double rows, which, with sofas beneath, forms a most delightful resort for an afternoon's promenade. Every Thursday and Sunday the fair Tucumanas grace this fashionable spot with their presence to hear the band play, and show off the latest 'mode' from the "Correo de Ultramar." Here no husband is terrified by milliner's or dressmaker's bills, for no such 'sine qua non' to a Parisienne's existence is to be found in the city: hence all the fair daughters of Eve have to make their own dresses, and adopt the latest fashions from the models and patterns sent with the above named newspaper. The Cathedral or Matriz is a fine building, and large in proportion to the population, which you give as 12,000 in your Hand-book, but which, in reality, is more like 15,000 to 16,000. The Convent and Church of San Francisco Solano is also a fine pile of buildings, and recently reconstructed. Here also are day schools, taught by the friars, and some 150 pupils receive the rudiments of a primary education. I was shown in the Convent the vestments used by San Francisco Solano, when here, in the year 1600; they are well preserved, and form a curious specimen of silk embroidery of the period, evidently the work of converted Indians, from its character and pattern.

The National College is not as commodious and fine as either those of Catamarca or Mendoza, but will be when finished a tolerably convenient and efficient building for its object. There is a professor of English, drawing, French, mathematics, chemistry, &c.; and the course of study, as represented by the programme of the examinations during the past session is highly creditable and advanced.

A few other schools are held by private individuals, but of minor importance.

The greatest want felt here in the way of schools is a first-class one for girls; and the heads of families are quite willing to guarantee 100 dollars a month to a competent lady teacher (preferring an English or American), and are about to present a petition to the President, praying he will send them one or two of this class.

A fine theatre was commenced by Father Campos when he ruled the destinies of the province, and over $40,000 spent upon it. The roof was faulty, or the walls insufficiently strong to support it, hence the Municipality ordered it to be taken down and rebuilt. It is now in course of reroofing and will soon be finished. It is considerably larger than the Victoria in Buenos Ayres, and has a fine Philharmonic saloon attached.

I visited some of the sugar and tanning factories, and was much interested with the progress and importance of these staple industries. That of Don Enrique Ertmann, of the Invernada, some thirty leagues from here southward, is one of the smallest, and yet he produced last year 4,000 tanned hides, 3,000 arrobes of sugar, worth $12,000, and $38,400 bottles of caña or rum, worth $3,000. In all the province during last year some 100,000 arrobas of tobacco in leaf were produced, together with about as much more in rolls. The number of hides tanned and exported exceeded 70,000. All those industries would, of course, increase a hundred fold had they the advantage of cheap and facile transport to a suitable market. The extension of the railway from Cordova is looked forward to with the greatest interest and anxiety, and from all I can judge of the resources of this and neighbouring provinces, such an extension would be a commercially sound undertaking, and produce fair dividends to the shareholders. I most heartily join with the Tucumanos in praying for its realization.

Yours,

ACONQUIJA.

LATEST FROM ASUNCION.

FETES AND FIGHTS.

Asuncion, April 29, '69.

The Cisne leaves at 10 a.m for B. Ayres, and I have nothing fresh to communicate.

To-day was the birthday of the Prince, and at 'peep of day' 21 guns were fired, awaking all the peaceful inhabitants of Asuncion. The Admiral and all the noted personages went out by train—no carriages, but in a wagon with chairs placed for a dozen to sit down—to congratulate the Count. At night we had a performance at the theatre, and all passed off first-rate.

Hides are being shipped in great quantities, and since the public sale, it appears they are springing out of the earth; every secret deposit is being cleared out, and everybody is offering hides for sale outside the town; private individuals are guarding the 'hidden treasure,' and I have been told by a merchant who went out to inspect it with the object of buying that he was actually chased—in fact, there has been a nice scramble. 600 hides were offered me yesterday at 14 reals fts., laid down at the port, the party apprising me that they were stolen, but that he had authority to sell—rather a singular way, in which he was sending them to the place of shipment: in divisions of 15 to 20, and to be carried there in the middle of the night. You may imagine what a nice game is being carried on.

On Tuesday there was a grand banquet given by Comandante Fernandez to Col. Campos, chief of the brigade arrived yesterday from B.Ayres. Gens. Mitre and Vedia were present, also the principal officers; a fine patriotic feeling and hearty good will existing between the soldiers of the Line and the National Guards. Mitre and Vedia were regular 'bricks' in speech-making—and I hope to be present again on the 25th of May.

The Argentine locomotive is ready, and commenced running yesterday: they are expecting one or two carriages for passengers from Buenos Ayres. Mr. Roche will, I think, make a capital business, as all the army business is at Luque, and every one comes here to buy their goods, this is the deposit.

I conclude in haste, as the steamer leaves in ten minutes.

Yours very truly,

A. B.

GOVERNOR CASTRO'S SPEECH.

Honorable Senators and Deputies.

Mr President,

The terms of the solemn oath which I have just taken might perhaps exempt me from addressing you, but the people in whose robust arms he is raised to power exact from the citizen, whom through their representatives they have so favoured, some expression of his opinions on his accepting so important a post.

My relations with the National Government will be based on the Constitution, and as Argentine and Porteño I will give it my frank and decided support in order to further the consolidation of the union and peace of the people of the Republic.

To education, one of the most imperious wants of our society, I will devote a preferential attention, and I will ask from you when opportunity offers to lend me your valuable aid towards spreading it to the utmost, whether in improving the rules of our University or increasing 'ad infinitum' the schools of primary instruction, particularly in the country.

The frightful plague that twice infused such terror into our population has not even yet disappeared completely, for we hear of a case now and then as if to keep before our minds, that if those charged with the duty of watching over the public health do not adopt efficacious means for improving our sanitary arrangements, the scourge will again make its appearance with even greater fury.

The former Government, wisely disposed, laid with the trifling means at its disposal the foundation for the establishing of the Waterworks, and this work, which is now finished as far as projected, imperiously calls for your attention, in order to give it greater extension in connection with the drainage of the city.

I will have the honor of laying before you within a short time a project that may perhaps prove the name of our great river to be a reality by giving us through its waters sufficient money to establish within the city every work that may be necessary for the improvement of our sanitary condition.

Our tax laws are imperfect and require studious and conscientious consideration, in order that equilibrium may be re-established; the Patente Law demands special attention.

Art. 167 of the Constitution says, "The prisons are made for the safe keeping, and not the mortification, of the prisoners." Ours, Hon. Senators and Representatives are in flagrant contrast to this constitutional rule. It is impossible to paint in sufficiently vivid colours the afflicting and horrible picture presented by our prisons, and to give you an idea of the urgency of the case that calls for your interference, I declare to you that it would be far preferable to build a prison, having regard to Constitutional, rules than to undertake the making of the finest railway—for, neglecting the latter would not necessitate the infringement of any explicit law.

I must confess that nothing so much occupies my attention as the state of the country parts. From this side comes the urgent cry for the action of the Government in assisting the development of its riches by the erection of bridges, the laying down of highroads and railways, which, with the assistance of the telegraph, will convert the most distant parts of the Provinces into suburbs of the Capital.

I also hope that, until some good organisation of our frontier service can be effected, and having regard to the number of National Guards enrolled, and the little this service exacts from them, it—hitherto so hated—may become more bearable for those citizens to whose lot it falls to serve.

After this reform, nothing would contribute more to the improvement of the country districts than new land laws conceived in a more liberal spirit than those at present in force, and giving more facilities for its acquisition by private parties, thus awakening the emulation of industrious and active men, and putting it within the reach of all; even those with the smallest capital. I cannot forget that in the glorious war in Paraguay the Province of Buenos Ayres has been worthily represented by a part of its heroic National Guard. I must ask you to give these brave men some token of the gratitude of the country for their sacrifices and constancy.

I must, in conclusion Hon. Senators and Representatives declare to your face, and in the presence of the country which hears me, that I recognise no political parties in the Province—for me there is but one—the Constitution and the Law. On it I rely, and I will joyfully accept the assistance of all patriotic intelligent and honorable citizens desirous of promoting the advancement and prosperity of Buenos Ayres.

Invoking the blessing of God on the people the Government, of whom I am about to undertake, I beg of Him enlightenment for the arduous task, and of you, noble Senators and Representatives, your potent aid towards improving the moral and material condition of the Province, so that at the end of our labours, this country—as productive in the arts of peace as valiant and glorious in war—may be able to say to us—You have done your duty!

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The opening of Congress takes place to-day. The gallery, as usual, is open to the public. It promises to be a grand affair.

The steamer from Montevideo yesterday brought us our usual files. The financial situation appears to engross public attention to the exclusion of all other topics. The excitement there yesterday was intense; the premium on gold rushed suddenly up, and the meeting of the Chambers was postponed, fearing that some disturbance might occur. It seems impossible to get a fair and impartial hearing for any proposal, no matter from what quarter it emanates; meantime the situation goes from bad to worse, neither party being willing to give their rival's proposal a chance, or go the right way towards bringing the present state of affairs to a close.

It affords us the most sincere pleasure to contradict an error which we together with our colleagues have been led into announcing within the last few days. We refer to the reported death of Mr Hudson, surveying engineer of the Central Argentine Railway. It appears that the murder in some brawl of one of the peons in the employment of that gentleman led to the rumour which had so shocked the English community here, and may cause the saddest conclusions at home should the falsehood obtain a start of the contradiction on the journey to England. It is to be desired that our provincial colleagues, from whom the report first emanated, keep a sharp eye on such intelligence for the future, as it is hard to do away with the impressions caused by such reports. We are now in a position to assert that there is no truth whatever in the report of Mr Hudson's death, our information being this time derived from the most reliable private sources.

At Salto, Banda Oriental, on the 28th of last month, there was considerable excitement, owing to its being known that the authorities were about to take possession of what remained of the goods, chattels, and capital of the branch of the Commercial Bank in that town, which has lately closed its doors. After the 'sheriff' had called aloud three times, "Open in the name of the law," and no one, even Echo, answering the summons, a crowbar was brought into requisition, and the representative of the law entered the deserted halls, formerly sacred to the issue of shinplasters and the reception of coin. Nothing was found but an old safe, strongly suspected to be full of emptiness, or forced currency notes. The keys were sent for [a useless formality when the crowbar was at hand], but we have not yet learned what were the contents of the safe.

The audience attending the Franco-Argentino Theatre on Monday night was thin, owing to the miserable weather, but those who decided on braving 'Jupiter Pluvius' were amply rewarded by the rich treat afforded them in the wonderful performance of Sr Don Felix Hernandez, on the sax horn. The first few bars of the exquisite Casta Diva of Bellini, hushed the audience into the most attentive silence, broken at the end by the most genuine and vociferous applause, and a call before the curtain. The same compliment was paid to the performer after each 'morceau', the Carnival de Venise with the most intricate variations "bringing the house down," and the performance to a close. Sr. Hernandez is a perfect master of this difficult instrument, and we can confidently recommend those who wish for a musical treat, to go and judge for themselves of his extraordinary powers.

We feel the most sincere pleasure in saluting our influential colleague, the "Republica," on its appearance in a "new suit" of type; the independent course it has ever followed must ensure it a continuance and increase of the influence it has attained and which it well deserves.

We published some time ago a programme of an intended Agricultural Exhibition at Capilla del Señor, which, if our memory serves us rightly, was announced for the beginning of May. We should very much like to know how the affair is progressing, for we are beginning to take a very great interest in the plough and harrow. We hope this proposed move in the right direction will not turn out, as usual in this country, a case of "great cry and little wool,"—though just at present, unfortunately, we have a good deal of the latter, of very bad quality, on our hands.

We have received a communication from a subscriber on the subject of the practice at present existing of publishing in the newspapers the sales made in articles of importation. The subject is worthy of the attention of those interested and the commercial public. We refrain from expressing any opinion on the matter at present, but would be glad to see the subject ventilated.

Our friend Major Rickard has arrived in Cordoba, on his tour of mining inspection. After his duties have been finished there, we believe the gallant officer will turn his steps towards the metropolis.

There has lately been a row at Cerro Largo of a serio-comic kind, in which one of that delightful sex distinguished for its partiality for men, money and mischief played a prominent part. A Dr. Pugibet of that town who happened to be in the very common position of having more debts than he had money to pay them with, refused to admit the minions of the law, when they knocked at his portals, armed with full permission to carry off to the auctioneer's shop all the medico's Lares and Penates. The door was smashed in, but in the breach the "better half of the "hard up" son of Esculapius stood with a pistol in each hand prepared to sell her chairs and tables dearly. By some means a parley was arranged, which had no result, as the lady (whose pistols had been taken from her) soon declared the conference broken up, by breaking the head of the Commissary with a stout stick which happened to be within reach. The next day the lady "called on" Sr. Castro, the "Political Chief," while he was at dinner with some friends, forcing her way in in spite of the remonstrances of the 'pampered menials' in the hall. Sr. Castro thought his last moment had come but the lady contented herself with presenting the Chief with "a bit of her mind," which that functionary received with the most commendable urbanity, and shortly afterwards had the lady and her spouse locked up in prison, where by latest accounts they still continue.

A captain, two subalterns, and two sergeants of the Brazilian army have been awarded the 'medalla de bravura' for having broken through a line of Paraguayans 200 strong, during a skirmish near Patinocué on the 25th ult. There is no news of importance from the seat of war.

Yesterday the great event of the day was the inauguration of the Rosario telegraph line. We give full particulars in another column. The line from to-day is open to the public. Our indefatigable agents up there, Messrs. Kean & Soames, report the following arrivals in the port of Rosario:—

British barque Flying Cloud.
" " Star of Peace.
" lugger Isabella Wilson.

The telegraph line will prove of immense utility to the Government, but we very much question if the trade between Rosario and Buenos Ayres is sufficient to cover the expenses of working. We can wish the line no better success than that of the River Plate Telegraph Company, which had so many difficulties to contend with at the commencement, but which, under the able management of Mr Oldham, has survived all, and is now one of the best managed and best paying telegraph companies in America or Europe. Oldham is the pioneer electrician of the Plate, and he should have come up from Montevideo yesterday to attend the 'fête.' Messrs Burton and Oldham are to-day the masters of the situation; in their keeping are all the great secrets of the River Plate. We bow to their empire, but hope that, no matter what connection the Government may have with the Rosario line, the wires will be ever open to the legitimate requirements of trade and commerce.

The last mails from the Pacific brought advices from our esteemed friend Don Santiago Estrada, who likes Chile amazingly, and has had an interview with the celebrated montonero Barela, who asks for an amnesty and to be permitted to return to his native country.

We call attention to a very important paper which we publish to-day giving a description of the splendid establishments of Messrs. La Fone and Carranza. Few in Buenos Ayres are acquainted with the importance of these establishment, and we return our best thanks to our correspondent in the interior for information of so useful and interesting a character.

We have been informed by parties just arrived from the opposite bank of the river that the epidemic which we lately announced as having broken out in the Banda Oriental amongst the horned cattle, has now assumed the form of the animals dripping suddenly dead without displaying any previous symptoms of illness of any kind. This is a great calamity for the neighboring republic, and its Government, although hard-pressed with other equally vital matters, can surely find means of having this epidemic reported on, and adopt some measures for staying its progress, if it is as serious as has been stated.

The Montevidean Chambers did not meet on Monday, in consequence of only nineteen Deputies having attended. It is said that many purposely kept away in consequence of the excitement on the Finance question, fearing some disturbance, as the bar and corridors of the house were filled with an excited crowd long before the hour appointed for the opening of the sitting.

On last Saturday another lamentable accident from the incautious use of firearms occurred in the suburbs of Montevideo. A young man, while out shooting with his cousin, was shot dead by the gun of the latter accidentally going off. The charge entered the groin of the unfortunate youth—by name Carlos Cervétti—who expired immediately on being carried to his home.

The employés of the "Siglo" newspaper were lately entertained at a grand banquet by the editors of that paper. The toasts proposed and responded to all betrayed the best feeling as existing between employers and employed. There were numerous guests present in addition to those connected with the paper.

In consequence of the departure of the Political Chief of Paysandu, the uneasy spirits of that locality have been trying to raise disturbances during his absence, by circulating false reports and other equally creditable manœuvres. Sr. Safons, however, his 'locum tenens,' is quite equal to the situation, and nothing serious need be apprehended.

'Standard' barometer still unwilling to give a decided answer as to what the weather will be on to-morrow; the barometer, like the times, seems to be slightly 'out of order.'

ON 'CHANGE.

May 4, 1868.

Ounces,	400
Sovereigns,	122¼
Patacons,	25
National Bonds,	56¼

The market again rose to day, and closed three-eighths in advance of yesterday's prices. There was a small sale for cash effected at 56⅜, but this rate could not be maintained, and the closing quotation was 56¼. One of the largest speculators in these securities, who has been absent in the provinces for some time since, on private business, was welcomed on 'Change to day, and sold largely for account. Outsiders, however, can glean nothing from the attitude of the brokers, as the best men on the Bolsa have been constantly changing their tactics of late, and content themselves with the smallest profits. A feeling generally exists that the Bond business has become most dangerous, and that it is impossible to foresee at what period the market may turn. Former fluctuations are much spoken of, and none but professed speculators care to deal in these securities for the present.

In Exchange there seems to have been as yet no important transactions. The cattle which are coming to the saladeros are said to be in good condition; and some houses defer to take Exchange in the hope of a rise in the rate, though the general opinion is that the tendency is downward.

In consequence, it is said, of the decision of the mixed commission in Paraguay, a large number of hides have been brought to light in and about the city of Asuncion, the greater part of which will probably be shipped here.

The inauguration of the new telegraph to Rosario took place to-day in the Government House. It is confidently hoped that this enterprise on the part of the Government may prove the first step towards the development of the resources of the interior provinces.

The opening of Congress and the President's message are seriously looked for, as much doubt exists as to the state of the National finances, and rumours of impending emissions are rife on the Bolsa.

SAVINGS BANK
BANK MAUA AND Co.
101--Cangallo--103
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling. in lotteries, and other frivolities

The Bank of Mauá & Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and has opened a Savings Bank at No 103 Calle Cangal from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. every day, for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned, Sundays and holidays excepted.

The Bank will deliver to each depositors a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interes will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighborhood.

Buenos Ayres, 2nd January, 1867.

P. P. MAUA & Co.,
M. A. DE FREITAS AMORIM.
